The Work Environment Quality Council at Embry Riddle Aeronautical University is comprised of a group of staff from multiple departments at the school. Each year they do a back to school drive for children in the area.

This year the group donated to the Domestic Abuse Council and Turie T. Small Elementary School with backpacks filled with school supplies for children to start the year off with necessary items to be successful.

“The best part of going back to school is the excitement of having new shiny things and being prepared. The backpacks were divided by grade, so they are age appropriate and perfect for the first day of school. This kind of gift relieves stress and worry for both the parent and the child,” Danielle Stansbury Shelter Manger at the Domestic Abuse Council said.
